

Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, Seventh Edition (2020)

This is the ultimate guide of how to report research.

I don't mean that you read the manual but you can consult it whenever you have queries. Eventually, you will understand what are the most useful chapters and the most Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ), but to start with it is useful to understand how we "cite" and how we "reference" resources; the most relevant cases are journal articles, book chapters, and books.

You can also 'google' your queries and find the answers you look for in sites or documents that address more specific FAQ.
